

Bromley Beekeepers' Association

Press Release

Sunday, 29 August 2010

Introduction to Beekeeping

The Bromley and Orpington Beekeepers Associations are holding their annual honey show on Saturday 18th September at Emmanuel Church, The Grove, West Wickham, BR4 9JS. The show opens to the public at 10am and admission is free. As well as candle making, a raffle, home made refreshments and honey tasting this year the beekeepers are staging two talks for would-be beekeepers who are thinking of taking up the hobby. The talks last for an hour and take place at 11.00am and 2.30pm, all are welcome.

Bromley beekeeper Steve Turner said “People hear things in the media and are worried about the fate of bees and often want to know what they can do to help, and maybe how to keep bees themselves. It’s a marvellous hobby and we hope these free talks will show people that keeping bees in London is perfectly possible as long as you get some advice from established beekeepers. The Bromley Beekeepers Association has a beginners group which includes classroom sessions and the chance to handle bees at the club apiary in Sydenham”.

Websites

Bromley Beekeepers' Association: www.kentbee.com/bromley

Orpington Beekeepers' Association: www.kentbee.com/orpington

Photograph copyright free by Steve Turner